Recap

- The territory won from war, the Mexican Cession, created more discord within the country over slavery's expansion
- The Compromise of 1850 was difficult to accomplish, will not be a permanent solution to the question of slavery

Henry Weeden to Watson Freeman, December 4, 1850 (Gilder Lehrman Collection)

Henry Weeden was a free African American tailor with a shop in Boston. On December 4, 1850, Weeden's shop received an overcoat in need of repair from a US Marshal in Massachusetts appointed by President Franklin Pierce, who was upholding the Fugitive Slave Law.

TRANSCRIPT

Boston Dec 4, 1850

Mr Watson Freeman

Sir

Your Coat came to me this morning for repairs. I take this method of returning it. without complying with Your request. With me Principle first. Money afterwards.

Though a poor man I crave the patronage of no Being that would volunteer his services to arrest a Fugitive Slave or that would hang 100 N------ for 25 cents each –

Henry Weeden
